Quality of work and assistance with design - Attention to detail and the quality of the work is very important to us, and College City met and exceeded our expectations. As far as design, we knew what we wanted as the end result but weren't quite sure how to get there. Rebecca nailed it with all of the choices during the design process.

I think the design work was wonderful. There were design ideas that as owner, we wouldn't have thought about. We came up with general concepts, but getting it down to specific and innovative design ideas that added and embellished the concept we had was outstanding.

Tis' a shame I couldn't give you 10 stars. Only once did the schedule take a minor delay and it wasn't through any fault of College City.

We have always been so impressed with how clean the job site was. It was a major concern but all fears were alleviated.

It's rare when you can find high quality individuals, with quality materials, and a vision. Honestly, there were no disappointments. College City is the professional operation that others should strive to achieve. Many try, none we know of, ever succeed.

Bonnie is a very bright, professional and polished designer. And yet, she is very warm, caring and personable. Bonnie has an uncanny memory for details (you only have to tell her once that you don't care for yellow and she will remember that for the remainder of your project). She is very dedicated to her career and position at College City. Bonnie has a wonderful way of making you and your project feel very special to her - she makes you feel you are her only customer. From day one, My husband and I had complete confidence in Bonnie (which was not the case with another company we were considering). Trusting Bonnie made conflicts between my husband and I much easier to resolve. For example, if we could not agree on something regarding design or selection, we would both look at each other and say in unison "Let's ask Bonnie". Bonnie would calmly and professionally give her expert advice and the issue would be solved. She is simply amazing.

Consistent communication about what was happening throughout the project was great. There were a couple of details that fell through the cracks, which would be expected on any project of this scale involving lots of people, but the people at College City owned up, took responsibility, and got things squared away quickly. This speaks highly of their individual and corporate integrity. It felt good to work with them.
