Had the salesman come out to examine all my windows and advise of which seals were broke and needing replaced. First he couldn't measure one "half-round" because it was up too high. So a second appt was needed. Second, he missed one in my dinette that I now have to stare at all fogged up every morning. If he had caught it, it would look as good as all the others they did. The work that was done, really does look great!

We have had window panes replaced on 3 windows so far. the work has been well done. Pricing went up very significantly for the 3rd window which was just done. One pane cost us more to replace than the whole window had when we had it replaced.

The owner came to give us an estimate, by himself with no ladder, and expected us to assist him in getting up on a second story roof. While the main installer was very helpful and professional, the person who was supposed to help him showed up an hour late, so he continued the work by himself. After the first rain, one skylight started leaking. It was successfully repaired within two days. They do not do their work in a safe and professional manner. The customer service person put off my complaints saying that only the owner could handle it. He has never contacted me to discuss our dissatisfaction.

I felt a high level of confidence in GG from the moment a received a call from the scheduler for my appointment with a sales person to review my problems. The installation team were professional. One large section of glass that was installed was wavy and offered distorted views. I called, they made a complaint to the manufacturer and within 3 weeks we had a new piece of glass. I felt we received great service.

Wood had been glued and this made job very difficult and time consuming to install replacement glass. They found a solution and quality was top notch. I was never asked to pay more than quoted price made prior to discovery of glue. Class act and rare to see these days! Thank you Glass Guru!
