CRDN made sure all our fire damaged belongings was taken from our home. They cleaned and stored the clothing. All my exercise equipment was stored and kept wrapped (peloton bike, ab lounger, feet up etc. Our belongings have been here at home over two months and the way they boxed up item so perfectly we haven't finish unpacking. Also my clothing came back dry cleaned, professionally bagged and I'm so thankful how they saved a lot of our precious pictures and all kind of other miscellaneous items. I can go on and on about how perfect CRDN is. Thank you Micheal for your gracious service ??

They damaged a large number of our belongings, there are items of our that we never received back, and we received someone else's belongings. They did drop off so we notified them of this and they never came to pick up what wasn't ours to deliver to the rightful owner. Our electronics were also not thoroughly cleaned. I was able to removed black soot from our house fire, something they were supposed to throughly remove.

Everybody from the company that came to my home was very professional. I had no problems, and my phone calls were returned when I had any concerns. Anything that was not 100% complete, they completed it in a timely manner. I had no problems, and I was pleased with the service.

They destroyed and discarded items that I would have gladly taken back, damaged or not. They didn't notify me until after the items were unrecoverable. I am very unhappy that there were antiques deemed uncleanable or that didn't react well to cleaning, and I was not given the option to get them back. They just threw them away.

They take advantage of people in a crisis situation and they are taken advantage of people by overcharging the insurance company, and they are a company that is supposed to be trusted. They lie about things and don't list items and keep them for themselves, and when asked they are not honest about it.

I had a lot of clothing, and various textiles of different fabrics and quality effected by smoke. Everything was returned to me in perfect condition. I feel like they went above and beyond compared to the other company that was used to clean my regular things. That company is nowhere near the level of CRDN. I was impressed!
