I would highly recommend Mac to build your home. His company is very reliable, quality of work is excellent, he's on time, and cost is what he says it will be without change orders. It's now two years since he has built and we are still very pleased with the quality of our home.

Mac did an outstanding job as project manager. He set high standards for himself and his subcontractors and enforced them. He's a "detail person"; very little gets past his gaze. He's highly proficient about building materials and construction techniques, and shared his knowledge with us throughout the project. His business processes were always well-organized, and costs were transparent. We felt he was running a tight ship and that we could trust his judgment. Best of all, Mac was a true collaborative partner; communications were always thorough and friendly, including with our architect. Although building a house can be a challenging process, we felt working with Mac stacked the odds in our favor for a successful and satisfying conclusion.

We highly recommend McGuire Homes. Mac McGuire was an on-site every day builder for our new home and remained that way through out the build. He was cost conscious and advised us if our choices were over budget. He was a good communicator and easy to get in touch with whenever needed, which was very frequently since we were very involved in the build. He was well experienced in building homes and had subs redo things he noticed that were not according to the plans or needed correction. We have just moved in to the house of our dreams and are loving it!

Mac McGuire built our home designed by our architect. McGuire had many very good ideas that we incorporated into our house. The workmanship was exceptional in every phase of the job. McGuire held the job to the price at the time of bid and the only exceptions were change orders that we requested. I would strongly recommend Mac McGuire for his workmanship, the high level that he expects from subcontractors, his continual communications on what was happening during the build and finally that he came in at the price he stated at the original bid. We were extremely pleased with the professional job that McGuire performed.

From the beginning of the project Mac McGuire had a vision for my kitchen remodel and living area update. Always flexible and easy to work with, McGuire Custom Homes transformed my dated kitchen, living room and dining room into a open space which takes advantage of the beautiful marsh view and provides a floor plan suited to entertaining. The superior craftsmanship and excellent quality of the work enhance the value of our home.
