Bill and the staff at Nautilus provide exceptional service. Our home has never been in better shape, and it is always a pleasure dealing with them. They are incredibly knowledgeable, and have maintained our home beautifully. They are also completely trustworthy and have managed other vendors working in our home while we are away. I don't know what we would do without them.

Nautilus has been and is the best I could ever recommend. We started a venture they have never done to build a modular. They have worked very hard to make sure they have all the information we need. Bill has been very attentive to all our wants and needs. This a very trustworthy company.

Bill Payzant is truly someone that any Homeowner can LEARN from! As a first time home owner, my knowledge base was limited with respect to how to properly maintain my home. Bill's knowledge with respect to all elements in home construction is limitless! The guy truly knows his craft... He is a Problem Solver to the highest degree - No task is too small or too big for him. He truly embraces your needs as if they were his own!

There are a lot of general contractors out there and I interviewed my share. Through that process, I began to learn how unique Nautilus Company is. Before even signing a contract, we thoroughly discussed our perspectives and expectations of the project including the professional relationship. A great deal of integrity was established through these authentic meetings allowing me to feel confident of my decision to enter into the partnership. I use the word partnership with intention. I was consistently confident that I would be kept well informed and consulted as necessary once construction began. Communication lines were always open and flowed freely. I was further impressed that the professionalism displayed by Nautilus was also expected of the subcontractors. It was clear that a positive working relationship existed between Nautilus Company and the subcontractors. That was exhibited in meeting timely schedules, correcting any issues that arose rapidly and a consistently clean job site. Without hesitation, I would work with Nautilus Company again. With pride, I would recommend them to family and friends.

Nautilus Company is a phenomenal builder and home management company. They deliver high quality craftsmanship, are experts in many areas and 100% professional. Working with Nautilus gave me peace of mind knowing that my job would be done right - on time, on budget and with excellence. I recommend Nautilus to anyone looking for a builder or someone to take care of their home. 6 stars out of 5!
