I've been in construction for 40 years. With a strong background in residential framing I would not hesitate to recommend SR Freeman to anyone.

The crew showed up on time every day. No loud music and no drama.

S.R. Freeman did an excellent job of identifying a realistic cost up front and then sticking to it. The only change orders were based on elective scope change. Francisco was always available and Joel was very helpful and had a great attitude. I never saw any of them staring at their phones unless on break!

72 5th Ave completed an exceptional job and I would give them 4 stars on anything as I did not have any frustrations which is unique for them.

SRF added a carpenter when we needed it, and took on outside scope work very well, and met our expectations without exception.

Jose S. ran a great crew of journeymen and apprentice carpenters, and they were very conscientious and thorough in their execution of all work packages. Sean and Charlie were very helpful and responsive throughout the process.

Sean and Charlie were very responsive, and helped to price out of scope work in a very timely manner. The budget tracker is a work in progress, but the billings were excellently transparent and accurate throughout.

Having a competent crew that could be mobilized for a substantial duration. Quick turnaround on the pricing by your management team was huge in our ability to present the work pricing to the client.

Continue to develop CAD layouts and shop drawings for complex work. This is a huge help to general contractors and something that really sets you apart from other framers. Wherever applicable, look to optimize cost/schedule through pre-fab, pre-cuts, etc.

Having S.R. Freeman on any project is a huge asset. Their team of supervisors and carpenters are at top of the industry and their management is organized and responsive. The ability to coordinate and install complex work with structural steel and wood is great. They understand the needs and priorities of GC's and I would highly recommend them to anyone working in custom residential construction.

Again, the level of partnership is highly important. SR Freeman's team is well experienced and always available. Responses to requests are always prompt and given with a smile. Next to high quality work, this is what most impresses me with SR Freeman as the difficulty and ever changing nature of custom residential work requires the level of enthusiasm and flexibility they offer.

SR Freeman has a great management to field work process and are excellent "partners" to the GC. Timing of updates on pricing, material submittals etc is all of highest quality in the subcontractor world. Timeliness and quality of field work have been fantastic.
