Everybody from the salesman to the office staff to the installers was professional, courteous and knowledgeable. The installation itself was awesome. I highly recommend this company.

All personnel involved were superb. The installation crew caused the Berkeley inspector to say it was the best installation he'd ever inspected.

Allterra committed to complete the installation in December 2013 in time to take the tax credit in 2013. Work was completed near the end of December, but not in time to complete the inspection process. So the credit could not be taken until 2014.
