I appreciate Jack Johnson and the attention to detail that was put into the project. Clear concise bids, attention to detail, professional site management.

Bardi is a capable company. The team we started with was not engaged. Communication was. It good. The project manager only came to the site once. The start up and control contractor they hired was very poor. The field install sheet metal crew was rude and didn't work well with other trades.

Bardi's installers were like bees around a hive. They came in and got our project done in a more than satisfactory time frame. I would definitely recommend them to anyone needing any commercial HVAC work done.

They work was design built and they did a great job.
They suggested the best equipment for our budget for the conditions of the property. We are very satisfied.
When we had issues they took care of them right away.

Typically with these kind of jobs you have a relationship with the salesperson and you don't really know who the project manager is, however this was not the case. Bardi Mechanical has a great staff because the project manager always called me first so I did not have to hunt him down, which made my life a lot easier.

It was a very positive experience. The marketing people, the project management - everyone did a great job. I know the most about project management and they are very professional. It was a very good experience and I would definitely keep using them if I can.
