They did a great job, they had a few snags that they worked their way through. They were great.

Solare Energy performed flawlessly from the first sales visit through system activation including follow-up instructions and replies to questions. My system is cranking energy at the planned level and I'm on the way to achieving all my solar goals including financial benefits.

In addition to great service and everything else, one thing I was surprised at and Solare Energy didn't even use to sell me on it was how relatively "camouflage" their installation is. My installed panel reside about 3" above my roof tiles where all the other in my neighborhood reside about 6"-8". that difference is huge when you drive by and make ours hard to see in certain angles. My wife said she had another Solar solicitor come to our door after installation and my wife said we already have solar and the person had to back step and re-look at our rooftop.

On the recommendation of a friend who said "working with Solare was the best part" of her remodel, I chose to use them too. I agree wholeheartedly. It was a terrific experience.

I highly recommend Solare Energy. We looked into solar extensively in 2012, but at that time it didn't quite pencil out. Well, by 2016 it did, thanks SDG&E. Solare was the only company we found where the installers were also employees, not just sub contractors. Their work is top notch, and they use quality materials.

We enjoyed working with Solare Energy. It would have been better if the system worked immediately instead of months later. It would have been better if Solare Energy would have made up the financial difference for the time it didn't work.

2nd home Ive used Solare on and they are buttoned up, cost efficient and very professional. Plus, they work with San Diego Metropolitan Credit Union, who is also a pleasure with which to work. No reason not to go solar and no reason not to use Solare.

I had been looking into having a solar power system installed on my home for months and interviewed several companies before selecting Solare. I chose Solare because they were hands down the most knowledgeable and offered a product and service (installation) that were second-to-none. It has been a full year since my system was installed and I am still fully satisfied with them.

I have reviewed over 15 different companies for the project at my business, and Solare Energy came out way ahead of all of them on price, quality of materials, and support. The workmanship was impeccable, and they are providing the best value you could get anywhere. I have already recommended them to many other people, many of which have also used solar for their own homes.

Solare knocked out the project in one day. A crew of four split up the work. It was obvious that this team had done many jobs together. There was a problem with one connection after the initial install. One of the crew came back the day after the problem surfaced and fixed it. It has been cranking out KW ever since.
