We've hired Fresh Coat Painters several times over the years and their workmanship never fails to exceed expectations

I would recommend Fresh Coat only with caveats. I specifically chose Fresh Coat because of their lead safety certification. The crew did not wear protective gear until I requested it, or until the second day of scraping put down tarps to protect the ground. I am still finding paint chips everywhere (despite genuine cleanup efforts). I do not want to contribute to someone getting lead poisoning because they worked on my house! The end result is stunningly beautiful, and the crew were lovely to work with. I would spend time again with Lew, Harry and Pat any day. But overall it's a mixed bag. I know that Ron was doing his best to get a crew to each of the jobs he committed to, but I think that in trying to do all of the jobs, he sacrificed some quality. I also suspect that PPE was hard to find, but it's still important to protect the health of your crew.

Ron is professional and experienced, and working with him was a pleasure. His bid was fairly priced. Clean-up was not up to expectations, though pretty close. Some of the residue from paper removal remained on our rug, and some of the dust, presumably from sanding spackle, ended up on my front steps. Nonetheless, I would recommend Ron and his team.
