The project involved repair of extensive water damage in the lower part of the house. Quentin Unsworth, the owner submitted a clear and detailed estimate which was promptly accepted by the insurance company. He then proceeded to perform the work with careful attention to detail. This is not to mention the level of the people who came to work, not in sweatshirts, neatly attired, attentive to all our concerns and even more careful that might have been expected. They worked with precision and shown respect or any discomfort we might have encountered in the process of the work. They left the promises clean and orderly. It was such a pleasure to see a company working on such high standard.
