I thought they were very professional from when we met with the salesman to after the work was finished and installed. We were most impressed with the folks they had working for them, they were professional, they knew their jobs, they were on time, they always cleaned up afterwards, they were very considerate of our needs as a consumer and as people living in the place of construction. I definitely would recommend them.

ShowPlace Bath and Kitchen (of Elkton, MD) exceeded all our expectations of working with a designer/contractor in renovating our kitchen. They spent countless hours designing just the kitchen we wanted and within our budget. The work crew were on time every day and were always seeking feedback - we always looked forward to talking with them at the beginning and end of each day to get a summary of what they did and work out any problems they found. They are true craftsmen as evidenced by our results. We would recommend them without reservation to anyone seeking a bathroom or kitchen remodel.

The best way of making my dream come true (beyond my expectations) has been using ShowPlace Bath & Kitchen for the last three renovations made in our house during the last year...and more to come.

It was a pleasure to deal with ShowPlace Bath & Kitchen from very beginning to last drop. They came early and stayed late. They never left us without water or anything. If they needed to work an extra hour to get us up and running before they left, they did that. I told them several times that it was almost a pleasure having our bathroom torn up! They were so meticulous about cleaning as they were working and getting things restored each day. It was like having my three brothers in the house. They were just incredible. The workers were mannerly and humble. It was just a delight to work with ShowPlace.

Eric Olson, Chris Johnson and others associated with ShowPlace were professional in every manner. The project was planned to the detail by Eric and carried out under his and Chris' supervision. The workmanship is beyond approach. ShowPlace completed on time a major renovation/addition project which we are enjoying every day!
